Upcoming Virtual Church Services

11:00AM Sundays at HVVUUC YouTube

June 12—Generational Understanding and Generational Healing, Rev. Sapp

Generational Differences have been a hot topic in movies lately from Encanto to Turning Red. One of the beauties of these narratives are how generations can heal together and learn from each other if we can practice listening to each other. Watching these movies is not a pre-requisite to coming to this service, but there just might be spoilers!

June 19—Beyond the Tree of Good and Evil, Charlie Mattioli
Are we too clever for our own good? Are we so distracted as people and a culture to seriously face the challenges of unintended consequences in the society and culture we're building?

June 26—Poor People's March on Washington: Boots on the Ground

The week prior a full bus of social justice warriors of all ages and interests and backgrounds attended the Poor People's March in Washington DC, to make a statement and show support. Today we will here from several in attendance about their perspective on their experience there.

Community Play

It's a rare opportunity to get to support local arts, learn about the justice oriented history of our area, AND cheer one of our own members on!

Check out "We Did It Together" at the McKinney Center in Jonesborough:

Democracy is Calling

As General Assembly approaches, I am reflecting on how a key part of our Unitarian Universalist identity is that we are a democratic religious movement. General Assembly is the annual meeting where delegates from all over the nation gather to vote on the direction our movement will take, elect representatives to the UUA's Board, and also get a chance to learn from amazing speakers, workshops and worship services.

In Unitarian Universalism, the goal is for everyone to have a voice and a vote. This year, we have three delegates serving as the voice and vote of Holston Valley Unitarian Universalist Church.

Our delegates are going to General Assembly to REPRESENT YOU, which means that listening to our community is an essential part of how they do that representing. For that reason, we are hosting a "General Assembly Forum" on Zoom on Sunday June 12th from 6:30pm to 7:30pm. To sign up for your Zoom link, go here: <https://hvuuc.org/events/2022/6/12/general-assembly-forum>

During that time I will review the items that will be up for a vote, but you can learn more about them through the General Assembly business agenda that is also posted to the Event. During that time I will review the items that will be up for a vote, but you can learn more about them through the General Assembly business agenda that is also posted to the Event link above.

Also this year, we actually have some contested elections for Board of Trustee positions. You can read statements from both the nominated positions and those who are running through petition here: <https://www.uua.org/uuagovernance/elections/contest-election-2022>

These are the moments where being engaged in our democracy are so vital, which you can see by the very different kinds of platforms that people are running on.

Our local congregation's democratic process is no less important. We may not be having contested elections here, but we are having a chance to express ourselves on two vital social justice issues during a special Social Justice Call to Action meeting on Zoom on Thursday, June 9th, from 6:30pm to 7:30pm. Here's the information for that meeting: <https://www.uua.org/uuagovernance/elections/contest-election-2022>

I am so glad that Unitarian Universalism is governance for-and-by-the-people. Our Board is democratically elected both nationally and locally. Important decisions are made by the congregations, not the ministers. And we do everything we can to make sure that people have a voice in the matters that affect them directly.

Thank you, for engaging in our democratic process with us! Rev. Sapp, minister@hvuuc.org

Soapbox Sunday is coming up and we want to hear from you!

Each Sunday that's closest to the Fourth of July, we invite members and friends of our congregation to take to the pulpit for a brief (4 minutes long, 400-500 words) presentation on a topic that you are passionate about.

In opening the floor to speakers, the congregation is celebrating an American tradition - freedom of speech. We hold that a "free and responsible search for truth and meaning" is a key Unitarian Universalist value that we embrace on this day.

Space is limited so email Rev. Tiffany with your topic idea to minister@hvuuc.org

ENVIRONMENTAL ISSUES

National Pollinator Week (June 20-26, 2022) is an annual event celebrated internationally in support of pollinator health. It's a time to celebrate pollinators and spread the word about what we can do to protect them. Utilize these resources to help you celebrate and promote your involvement in this year's #PollinatorWeek: <https://pollinator.org/pollinator-week>

Have you started your Climate Victory Garden? If not, you still can! Growing food and flowers can be part of the climate solution if done regeneratively. Learn about the basics of gardening and tips for getting started.

No matter where you live or how much space you have (even if you live in an apartment), your garden can be part of the movement of thousands of individuals across the country (and world!) who are gardening for the climate.
