Tri Pride Festival in Johnson City

On September 15, 2018, the first annual TriPride Parade and Festival will be held in downtown

Johnson City. Supported by the Kingsport Chamber of Commerce, the Johnson City Chamber of Commerce, and PFLAG of the Tri-Cities, their mission is to produce a family-friendly event that celebrates inclusion, equality, community and self-empowerment. Both Eastman Chemical Company and Citibank have become sponsors of this event. The Social Justice Committee will be participating in both the parade, by walking, and the festival where we will have a booth with information about our welcoming and inclusive church. If you are interested in donating a bit of your time, please sign up to spend some time at our booth! We need to demonstrate the welcoming nature of our church with a strong showing from our friends and members! Questions, contact SocialJustice@hvuuc.org.

Upcoming Sunday Worship Services

September 2—People. Productivity. Profit., Rev. Briere
Labor Day is more than parades and displays of pride and patriotism. It's more than the official end of summer. These days, Labor Day means People first. Productivity second. Profit third.

September 9—Christianity 101, Rev. Jeff Briere
What does it mean to be Christian? Why is Christianity so dominant in the world? Where is Christianity flourishing?

September 16—Water Communion and Blessing the Backpacks, Rev. Jeff Briere
Today we bring water to mingle together in a symbolic act that underscores our contribution to the life of the community. Bring a small vial of water to the service and blend it with others. We also wish our children well in the new school year. Children, bring your backpacks for a blessing.

September 23—Change Up, Rev. Jeff Briere
Change is coming. Do we resist it or embrace it? Is there a middle way? According to the Buddha, there is always a middle way.
ETSU Chorale to perform!

September 30—Part of Living Religion, Tiffany Sapp
Unitarian Universalism is an adaptable religion that is oriented toward our future rather than our past. What possibilities does the future hold for us?

Path to Membership Classes

There are two dates for classes this fall, Sunday, September 9 and October 14, from 12.30PM – 2:00PM. You need only attend one class.

What is Path to Membership? It's a class conducted by the Membership Development team that helps prospective members learn more about our church and the opportunities for involvement. The class does not commit you to membership, but is a necessary precursor for joining our church. The class also lets you get to know a small group of people on a more personal level. Please sign up on the shelf in the Sanctuary or by email to office@hvuuc.org. Indicate ages of children who will need childcare so we can arrange for sitters.

First Impressions

My first Sunday at a Unitarian Universalist Church was a Water Communion service over a decade ago at my home church: the Unitarian Universalist Fellowship of Bay County. Jayon and I had decided that we needed community, but that this time around we could actually search for one that aligned with our values and our theology. (or in Jayon's case, his lack of theology!) Getting out of the car, full of hope, we heard a loud and friendly voice call out "Hello young people!" A tall, smiling black woman, about our age, was waving in our direction.

She showed us inside and helped us find a seat before she ran off to attend to another responsibility. I started thumbing through the hymnal to see if this place was everything I had hoped it would be, and I was rewarded with readings and hymns that represented such a beautiful variety of thoughts and feelings, from the mystics to the humanists. A gray-haired lady sitting in front of us overheard me marveling to Jayon about the hymnal. She turned around to welcome us. She asked if it was our first time, and when she saw the hope in my eyes, she asked me if I would like to take a copy of the hymnal home to look at it further, as long as I would bring it back.

By the time we got to the Water Communion portion of the service I had already decided that Unitarian Universalism was my new path, and that little building tucked amongst the trees was my new spiritual home. That tall smiling black woman has been our best friend for years now, and we are godparents to each other's children. The gray-haired lady taking great risks with the congregation's hymnals sent this church a little bit of money to help support my internship. This one Sunday opened doors to relationships that would change my life dramatically, and still are.

What would have happened to my life's trajectory if Jayon and I had been greeted with indifference rather than warmth? See the thing is, that neither of those people were the church's official greeter that morning, they just saw someone who needed to be welcomed and did it. Every Sunday we have new people come through our doors. Maybe they're a future religious education teacher, or social justice chair, or Board President. But we'll never know unless we let them know that they belong here. I challenge you, sometime this month, to find someone with a write-in nametag sitting in these chairs and introduce yourself, welcome them, and invite them to lunch after the service. Who knows what kind of impact your first impression might make?

ETSU Chorale to Perform September 23rd!

We are excited to present the ETSU Chorale under the direction of Dr. Matthew Potterton again this year at service Sunday, September 23rd.

Dr. Potterton will be asking for a free will offering to assist in fundraising efforts. Please see this short explanation from Dr. Potterton:

The Chorale is raising money to participate in one of the world's oldest choir competitions in Llangollen Wales. We will compete against choirs from all over the world hoping to bring back top prizes. The cost is going to be about $2700 a student and we are fundraising to help get everyone to go. Trips like these are life changing. As a college student, my choir participated in this competition and I remember socializing with choirs from all over the world. One that we really befriended was from Iran. At the time, our government's relations with Iran were even worse than they are now. But no one from our group or their group cared about that. We sang together and socialized together in peace. I can't wait to give my students this experience.

White Supremacy Teach-ins are Back!

Last spring we learned to recognize the characteristics of white supremacy culture and how it affects the everyday rights and privileges of our fellow humans of color. This fall we will explore how we can deliberately reshape our actions and attitudes to help dismantle this rigged system.

On September 23 local activist Kenneth Bonner will offer a workshop re: engaging communities in changing the face of social justice.

And on October 28 we will wrap up our series and commit to action.

Times: 12:45-2:30 p.m. (Childcare available for children under 12.)

The Musical Community is delighted to announce that we have found two wonderful people to share the Director-level responsibilities for our growing and vibrant music program. Kate Briere will be our new Choral Director and Michael Luchtan (pronounced Luck-tin) will be Music Program Director, with responsibility for everything except the choral groups. Kate has many years experience leading choral groups. Michael recently earned a Master's degree in Appalachian Studies at East Tennessee State University, and has an extensive instrumental music background. We look for great things from both of them in the coming months and years. Please make them feel welcome.

Welcome from Music Program Director, Michael Luchtan

Hello future friends in music! I am excited and honored to be taking on the role of Music Program Director at Holston Valley Unitarian Universalist Church. As the weeks go by, I hope to learn more about individual members of the congregation and the role that music plays in your life. In the meantime, here is a little bit about myself. I began playing music at a young age, but didn't dedicate myself to the art until after I finished college. I have always sung, but my instrumental focus evolved from saxophone to guitar to piano, and my artistic focus from songwriting, recording, and performing to composing and arranging. For me, music has been a never-ending journey of discovery and a joy to play multiplied when shared with others. As Music Program Director I will be taking care of the nuts and bolts that result in the presentation of a quality, collaborative musical program every Sunday but I also hope that I can share my genuine love for music by creating opportunities for members of this community to partake in the joy of music, whether it be by sharing their musical gifts during service, making music communally with the choir and congregation, or being the happy recipient of various quality musical programming. I am hopeful that my tenure in this position will enrich the musical life of this congregation by promoting music as a means for jouissance, self-actualization, social cohesion, communal joy, and social justice.

I just finished a Masters degree in Appalachian Studies at ETSU. My thesis was an ethnographic case study of a musical community in Catalonia that plays bluegrass and old-time music. My work was focused on the characteristics of communities that appear around musical styles and why certain communities flourish. I will need your help to make this musical community grow and flourish. Communities are fostered by the people who give unselfishly of themselves to make the community better. If you have any musical gifts that you would like to share, or any comments or suggestions, please come talk to me after a service or send an email at musicprogram@hvuuc.org. We have a number of different opportunities for you to be involved at whatever level you feel comfortable with. In addition to my role as Music Program Director, I play the carillon for ETSU and teach piano lessons to adults and children. I live in Johnson City with my wife Kehren Barbour and our son Pablo.

Welcome from Choral Director, Kate Briere

I am very excited to start this new year with the choir at Holston Valley Unitarian Universalist Church. This is an invitation to all those out there who would like to come and sing on Sunday mornings (Hymn Choir) and for any special events that are scheduled throughout the year (Event Choir). I am also planning a Children's Choir for the December 9th Festival of Light service.

If you have any questions or suggestions for the Choral Program, please contact me at choir@hvuuc.org

I am looking forward to a great year!
Kate

It invites participants to place themselves into our history and consider its legacies. What lessons do the stories of our history teach that can help us live more faithfully in the present? What lessons do they offer to be lived into the future?

Fun Fitness @ HVUUC!

Do you know that there are Zumba classes offered right here at HVUUC?! Zumba is the perfect workout for anyone! It's fun, so you don't even feel like your working out! Jessie Hess, the instructor, shows how to modify if you need to. There is only one "rule" you need to know: Have fun!

I was so hesitant, shy and awkward when I took my first Zumba class (and second, and third, and fourth), but after realizing what a great time I had when I just let myself have fun AND losing weight I was hooked! It's so important to keep active, but most workouts are so intense and/or boring. Zumba @ HVUUC offers you the unique opportunity to get active and fit while having a fantastic time! There are 2 different formats offered: Zumba® & Zumba® Toning & Burst. For information on these classes, e-mail Jessie jumbazumba@yahoo.com and/or check out the Facebook group: Jumba Zumba.

Did You Know?

Appalachian Dharma and Meditation Center

Holston Valley Sangha (Wednesday morning session that used to meet at UU Church) will now be meeting at ADMC in Johnson City. www.dharma4et.org

Free Presentation Introducing Taoism's Approach to Death September 15, 2018 1:00-3:00 p.m.

The Appalachian Dharma & Meditation Center (ADMC) is offering a free presentation Saturday, September 15, introducing Taoism through the universal problem of death and dying and the fear often associated with it. Taoism is an ancient philosophical and religious tradition from China that has some historic affinities with Buddhism. The event is free and open to anyone interested in or just curious about Taoism. Popular Western understandings of Taoism are frequently limited to tai chi exercise classes, associating the "Tao" with "the force" from the Star Wars movies, that "yin-yang" symbol or a casual "go with the flow" approach to life. This presentation will introduce Taoist principles focusing on the common human concern of death and dying. The goal of this presentation on ancient Taoism offers a unique perspective and valuable insights that can be relevantly applied to life today regardless of one's religious or philosophical affiliation.

Intro to Taoism

The presenter is Gary F. Daught, an academic librarian and former Mennonite Church minister who lives in Johnson City. He has been studying Taoist philosophy for several years. The session is free of charge.

ADMC is located at 108 West 10th Avenue, Johnson City, TN on the basement level. All events at ADMC are open to "danas" or donations but it is not required. For additional information, please see <http://www.dharma4et.org> or email dharma4et@gmail.com.
